Note to Visitors of the New Indy Squadron Dispatch Online

Well, after two years of trying desperately to revive the wonderful site built by Brian Halbertstadt, we've turned to mocking up our own e-zine until we get the original Indy site transferred to a new webmaster or until Brian can take it up again.

While that may seem like a long shot, I sincerely hope that all of his work will not be wasted and that one day we can put the best Dawn Patrol site on the web back where it should be. In the meantime, this new Indy Squadron site will serve as a clearinghouse for new information, a site for new issues of the Dispatch and a small archive of photos and Indy Squadron history.

This is the best that can be managed under the circumstances, and I hope everyone understands. It should do the job nicely and can be updated regularly! Woo hoo!
